RCB Centura Robbery Suspect Arrested

(Georgetown, SC)---Georgetown County Sheriff's Investigators charged 22-year-old Corey A. Beach this afternoon for the Strong Armed Robbery of RCB Centura Bank that occurred last week on July 20, 2009 in Litchfield. Beach is a Pawleys Island resident currently residing at 24 High Ridge Loop Apartment 624.

Georgetown County Sheriff's Investigators received information Saturday night, July 25, 2009, when they were contacted by police officers with the Walterboro Police Department about a possible suspect they stopped for a traffic violation. Walterboro's Officers told sheriff's investigators as a result of their investigation during the traffic stop, Beach was arrested for a suspended driver's license.

Walterboro's Police Officers searched Beach's vehicle and found in the glove box a black bag containing damp, red stained money. Officers contacted us after finding the money due to a teletype sent out through NCIC by Georgetown County Sheriff's Investigators alerting surrounding areas of the robbery.

Corey A. Beach

Georgetown County Sheriff's Investigators went to Walterboro yesterday to speak with Beach and as a result of their investigation; a warrant was obtained for Strong Armed Robbery.

Georgetown County Sheriff's Deputies went back to Walterboro today and brought Beach back to the Georgetown County Detention Center where he is currently being held awaiting a bond hearing.
